NEGROES IN WASHINGTON.

How the Large Colored Population of the National Captful Is Accounted For.

Washington retains to the 1900 census the distinction which it had in the 1890 census of having more colored inhabitante than any other city of the United States, says a report from that city. The explanation of Washingson's popularity as a pince of residence for colored people is that it is the winter quarters of many thousand negroes who, at the beginning of spring begin their exodus to northern watering places and to Virginia and Maryland summer resorts. The cost of living for solored people in Washington is not high. The climate is equable, the national government does not authorize restrictions against colored people such as prevail in most southern states as to residence and means of transportation. There is no discrimination against them in the Washington courts and the large transient population of the District of Columbia during the sessions of congress and when the public departments are under full headway causes a large demand for colored em-

Washington retains its popularity among colored people, but the temporary depletion of its colored population, which begins on May 1, has been going on even more rapidly this year than heretofore. In the month of Ocreturn of the colored people to Washington sets in most strongly.

WHAT MEXICO BOASTS OF.

Some Remarkable Features in Which the Republic Stands Proeminent.

In our country, says El Correo de Sonoro, we have the following:

The highest mountain in North America, Popocatapetl; the deepest mine in the world, Valenciana; the richest vein in the world, and the one which has yielded the most silver, that of the mountain of Guanajuato; the most extensive and wonderful eaves, those of Cacabiamilpa and Villa Garsin; the oldest city in the Americas, formerly Tollan, now Tola; the oldest commercial house in America, the book store of Abadano, founded 211 years ago; the city in which printing was first established in the new world, Mexico, in 1593; the sanctuary most venerated in America, that of Guadaloupe, with which only may be compared that of Lourdes in France; the people whose tongue, like that of the Basques, cannot be classified among any of the continent, the Serl; the capital with a higher oltitude than the other elties of its country, Mexico; the biggest known tree, the "Santa Maria del Tule," in Oaxaca; the most recently created volcano, Jorullo; finally, the ruler now in power who has done most to preserve peace in all the countries of America freed from Spanish rule, Gen. Porfirio Diaz.

The Kalser Reads Many Newspapers. Emperor William recently gave ordevs for a long list of newspapers to be laid before him dally, instead of slippings, as heretofore. Besides perusing upwards of 40 German papers, he glances every day at two French journals, two English, one American and three Austrian.

The Canr's Modesty.

The can of Russin has not the halser's fondness to see himself in print and, on the rare occasions when he delivers a public speech, is much annoyed if he sees his words being taken down by a stenographer.

The Star Boarder's Plaint. When Emperor Wallam gets weary of a diet he shuts it off. This is where William has a big advantage, remarks the Chicago Becord-Herald, over people who board.

GROUND STONE AS FOOD.

Senrolty of Maible Matter in India Londs to the Consumption of Friable Rock.

On account of the absence of seeds ential. and succulent roots of grasses, says the chief medical officer of Rajpatana in a recent report, the bark of trees and even ground-up rocks are used, principally to give bulk to the scanty meal, and thereby stay the pange of hunger for a longer time. At present small proportions of ground Khejra bark are in use nearly everywhere, and in the proportion of about one part to twenty of flour it does not impair the digestion of the laboring classes, although it does so if taken in excess, says St. James' Gazette. Indeed, small quantities of this bark, well ground, are said to aid digestion, and to make up to some extent for always leave bad after-effects the want of fresh vegetables. TRICKS OF MONKEY TRAINER.

Chiesgo Denier in the Animals Tells How His Imitators Come to Grief.

"I had a couple of imitators last fall," said a Chicagoan who made a business of furnishing monkey aeronauts for country fairs and street shows, reports the Chronicle, "but they came to grief, and as a result the monkey market is pretty stiff. These fellows lessened the visible supply by a considerable number of the simians, who lost their lives by dropping from a perilous height. The secret of my business is the naturalness with which the monkey hangs to the traexcellent water supply, both for family peze-bar of the balloon or parachute attached to it.

"Last summer I explained that the trick was easy, that the monkey would never let go a nut in his hand and as long as he gripped it with the hand thrust through a manacle attached to the bar he maintained an acrobatio attitude. I said the other arm was held down by a bandage and the monk could not reach the nut with his other hand. A few slick fellows got some monkeys and started in opposi-

"Why should not the trick work for them?" inquired a listener.

"They forgot that the monk's feet are as serviceable as his hands, and as I had not enlightened anyone on the care of that part of the simian's anatomy they lost some high-priced animals." Hoyle's Literary Work.

The father of the game of whist, Edmond Hoyle, lived to be 97 years old. His treatise on cards has been published in all languages and probably no work except the libble has passed through more editions. The original work appeared in London in 1742 and 1770 it had reached its fifteenth edition. Then the commentators, revisers, critica, loonoclasts, pirates and expounders set in and from that time on down to the present day innumer-able "Hoyles" have been issued.
